

8. [10] They are enclosed in their own fat:
Their boasting words abound.
[11] They compass us and fix their eyes
To cast us to the ground.

9. [12] My enemy's a lion strong
That craves to tear his prey.
He's like a lion young that lurks
In ambush every day.

PSALM 17:13–15 17C
