
LLANGLOFFAN. 76.76.D.
4. 9O LORD, have mer- cy on me, For an- guish fills my life;
5. 11To all my foes a by- word, A dread to those near me,
6. When foes con- spire a- gainst me, My mur- der med- i- tate,
My eye, my soul, my bod- y Are all con-sumed with grief.
A scorn to all my neigh- bors, At sight of me they flee.
14In You, O LORD, I'm trust- ing; "You are my God," I state.
10My life is drained by sor- row, My years with sigh- ing spent;
12Like dead men I'm for- got- ten, A brok- en jar thrown out.
15My times are all in Your hand; Free me from foes who chase.
I've lost my strength by sin- ning; My bones are weak and bent.
13I've slan- ders heard of man- y, And fear is all a- bout.
16Your face shine on Your ser- vant; O save me in Your grace.
